

37 CFR 1.312 Amendment
Appl. No. 10/650,248
Amdt. dated Oct. 12, 2005
Reply to Notice of Allowability of Sept. 6, 2005

Remarks

The folding shelf function is to hold the printed matter or electronic devices, it is important to this application.

In this amendment, "a folding shelf being attached to the lower support plate;" has been changed to "a folding shelf being attached to the lower support plate to form a support platform to hold the printed matter or electronic devices;".

The sentence "a folding shelf being attached to the lower support plate to form a support platform to hold the printed matter or electronic devices;" is based on the claim 8 of amendment dated Aug. 8, 2005.

The two identical elastic bands attached to a lower surface of the lower support plate do not configured to attach the lower support plate to the steering wheel.

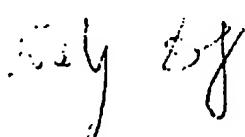

In this amendment, "two identical elastic bands attached to a lower surface of the lower support plate and each connect diagonally across the corners of the lower support plate, the elastic bands configured to attach the lower support plate to the steering wheel." has been changed to "two identical elastic bands attached to a lower surface of the lower support plate and each connect diagonally across the corners of the lower support plate, the elastic bands configured to prevent unexpected book pages turning.".

The sentence "two identical elastic bands attached to a lower surface of the lower support plate and each connect diagonally across the corners of the lower support plate, the elastic bands configured to prevent unexpected book pages turning." is based on the claim 7 of amendment dated Aug. 8, 2005.

Very respectfully,

James Guo

Wendy Zang
